We would be glad to hear from "50-4" again, and if "R. Styx" knew the value we put upon his newsy, interesting letters he would certainly send us one every week from Estill Springs.

Wiley S. Embury has gone East to purchase a large addition of spring and summer goods for his house. He knows what to get for his many customers.

John and Cicero Poe were returned to Nashville last week. Just before getting into the city slung-shoes, wrapped and tied in handkerchiefs, were found in their pockets. John's was taken from him, but Cicero managed to throw his out of the car. Very suspicious.

No head-ache or back-ache for ladies who drink "WINE OF CARDUI."
At J. M. Hutchins' or G. G. Phillips.

Perhaps no warmer welcome has been accorded any one in this vicinity for a long time than was given T. H. Clements last week. All who knew him seemed anxious to entertain him. Tom Clements lives in Calhoun county, Ala., where he has met with that success that generally is the reward of industry, honesty, and perseverance. Though it is eighteen years since he left this his native home, he has always manifested an anxiety to hear from it by subscribing for our paper, and paid us the other day two years in advance. He had with him his daughter, Miss Suddie, and on Saturday they left for Maury county to see some relatives.

The reconciliation to each other of the two wings of the Democratic party seems near at hand, and naturally creates uneasiness among Republicans, who see defeat for themselves in the union of Democracy. Their only hope now is that a few extreme men in both wings of the Democracy may succeed in keeping up the division, or, failing in that, may be induced to vote with the Radicals. But the late action of the Executive Committees, high and low, so-called, and the general sentiments we hear expressed by men who were, some for Wright and some for Wilson, leads us to believe that wise counsels and mutual, manly concessions will prevail, and Democracy, united, be a power to save the State from Republican rule. We want to hear no more of "wings." And or the harmony of Democracy we do think every true friend of the party ought now to work.

The short article in our paper headed "Political Notice" don't savor much of harmony, but we advise State-Credit democrats to take no offence. There will be many compromise low-tax men at that convention, and there are many who will not be there.

How we have progressed in vanity and self-righteousness since the days of Paul, and John, and James, and other followers of Jesus. Then it was simply Paul, or James, or Timothy, or John. You never heard of Rev. Dr. Paul, or Rev. Timothy, D. D., &c. You pick up a Sunday paper now and you see a half column of announcements that Rev. Dr. so-and-so, or So-and-so, D. D., will preach, or lecture, at such-and-such a place, and you go there and hear all sorts of anathema against dancing and innocent amusements. Perhaps the pews are rented, a mode of raising money that Paul knew nothing about.

Personal.
D. J. C. Blanton, of New Market, Ala., was with us last week. He is an intelligent gentleman and splendid physician.

Mr. Charley Shapard, of Texas, and Henry Shapard, of Boston, are on a visit to their parents, and especially their sister who is very sick.

Mr. H. A. Fitzpatrick, who has for several years been in Texas, is back at home among his relatives and friends. The redoubtable Major A. J. Greer is with us. All reports as to his being dead are malicious and false. We never saw him look so splendid in all respects in our life. There would be a great deal more sadness and gloom in this part of the world than there is if "Jack" Greer were dead. May he live long—we know he'll be happy.

The Nashville Banner accuses Gov. Marks of writing the letters signed "Democrat," in the Winchester Home Journal, and then says of these letters and of Gov. Marks: "His country paper teems with the bad English and worse logic of that eminent straddler." A newspaper has no more right to state things as facts, without the evidence, than a person has in social life. While we suppose Gov. Marks would feel complimented by having ascribed to him the authority of the able letters in the Home Journal, we happen to know that he is not the author. Better deal in slugs than state as facts things which are not true.—Nashville American.

Bored.
In view of the next meeting of the Tennessee Press Association the Home Journal would say a few words about bored. They afflict all classes, but the newspaper men more, perhaps, than others.

There is the person afflicted with an itch for writing. He wants you to print what he has written. You stagger through his illegible manuscript and find that all he has written can be said in one-fourth the space and made somewhat readable. You "boil" it down, and he boils with rage because you did not "put it all in."

There is the fellow who has let by death a dear relative. He wants published, for nothing, a long obituary, as if the majority of your readers would be deeply interested therein, when, in fact, they would feel as much interest in the death of some unknown person in Africa, or Japan. Of course it would be interesting to relatives, friends and acquaintances of the deceased, but ought to be paid for just as a coffin or shroud.

There are other bores. There is the fellow who has a new patented trick. He wants you to stop your business and see how it works, and then give him a nice little complimentary notice of half a column or so.

There is the fellow who delights in telling you a joke that he thinks ought to be in print, and you force a laugh for his sake. You have heard the joke a thousand times before.

There is the fellow who tells you all his troubles, his ups and downs, and you listen with elongated face and the patience of Job, and wonder if there will never be an end to his liad of woes. These are terrible bores. They ought to have sense enough to keep their troubles to themselves and not detail them to others who, perhaps, have troubles enough of their own.

There is the fellow who always has some big secret to tell you, which when told is worth nothing, and you would not trouble yourself to remember it half an hour.

There is the intolerable bore who, in talking to you, will every minute say: "You understand?" or, "Do you see the point?" or, "Do you catch the idea?" &c. These would be philosophers never gain a suit before an intelligent court because they show by their egotism that they think they know more than the court, and that the judges are blockheads.

There are some bores, over-smart in their own estimation, who will make efforts to use "big" words while talking to you, and then explain their meaning, as if to say: You see I know what the word means and you do not. This is provoking and insulting.

There are fellows who will nudge you every moment while talking to you, to keep you listening to their nonsense.

All these are bores, and we would gladly pay any one a good fee to call us away, on important business whenever he sees us in the clutches of such.

"BLACK-DRAUGHT" makes chills and fever impossible.

Cowan Items.
Cowan Tenn., April 10th.

Editor Home Journal:
Had a heavy rain Saturday morning, and hail and rain north of Cowan yesterday. Corn coming up. Farmers well up with work. Wheat is looking well. We will have a half crop of peaches and a full crop of apples, if we don't have another cold snap. More corn planted in March in this section than I have ever known before.

About $750 have been subscribed for a school building in Cowan. It is proposed to raise $1000 for the same, which I think will be easily done.

The Ancient Order of United Workmen have organized a lodge at this place with a membership of 26.

Major Daul, Superintendent of the furnace, has resigned on account of his health resignation to take effect the 15th. It is not known who will take his place. It is thought the building of a second furnace will be deferred for a time.

Married, at the residence of the bride's father on the evening of the 8th inst., Mr. B. Hilden to Miss Mollie Gibson.

Potatoes planted in our section are up and looking well. Garden vegetables much forwarder this spring than usual. H.

MARY SHARP COLLEGE,

Chancery Land Sales

For May 1st, 1882.

Cornelia McCutcheon, adm'rx, &c., vs. Alfonso Days et al.

By virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court of Franklin county, Tennessee, pronounced at its January Term, 1882, in above cause, I will, on at the Courthouse door in Winchester, Tenn., sell to the highest bidder, for cash, the ten-acre tract of land described in the pleadings, situated near Salem in said county, adjoining the lands of Jesse Vanant, Sr., and others, containing about 12 acres.

Noting that two good and solvent securities bearing interest from date, will be required of the purchaser for the credit payments, and a lien retained until all the purchase money is paid.

This March 25th, 1882.

T. H. FINCH, C. & M.

P. J. Justin et al. vs. Jas. S. Sisk et al.

By virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court of Franklin county, Tenn., pronounced at its January Term, 1882, in above cause, I will, on Monday, May 1st, 1882,

at the Courthouse door in Winchester, Tenn., sell to the highest bidder, for cash, the ten-acre tract of land described in the pleadings, situated near Salem in said county, adjoining the lands of Jesse Vanant, Sr., and others.

Sale to be made to satisfy, 1st, defendant J. S. Sisk's debt and costs, and next, complainant Justin's debt.

This March 25th, 1882.

T. H. FINCH, C. & M.

Hampton & Carlos vs. James A. Hudgins' adm'r and others.

By virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court of Franklin county, Tenn., pronounced at its January Term, 1882, in above cause, I will, on at the Courthouse door in Winchester, Tenn., sell to the highest bidder, for cash, the 21-acre tract of land described in the pleadings, situated in Lincoln county, Tenn., near Fayetteville, being Lot No. 8, and all that part of Lot No. 2 lying south of the W. & Ala. Railroad, and described in the proceedings in the Chancery Court at Fayetteville in the case of "Benjamin Fanning and others against Henry Kelso and others."

Monday, May 1st, 1882,

Sale to be made to satisfy complainant's debt and costs against defendant W. C. Fanning.

This March 25th, 1882.

T. H. FINCH, C. & M.

Fitzpatrick, Gregory & Davis vs. Daniel Lasater et al.

By virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court of Franklin county, Tenn., pronounced at its January Term, 1882, in above cause, I will, on at the Courthouse door in Winchester, Tenn., sell to the highest bidder, for cash, the several tracts of land herein described, belonging to the estate of Dr. H. C. Hinton, dec'd, to-wit:

1. The lot north of Salem, containing 17 acres, 3 rods and 11 poles—the buildings to commence at $25 per acre. 2d, The "Blacksmith Lot," containing 102 square poles—the buildings to commence at $125. (Both situated in Franklin county, Tenn.) 3d, The "Moore county tract," known as the Seely tract, containing 28 acres and 32 poles—the buildings to commence at $6 per acre. 4th, The "Tippie tract," in Moore county, Tenn., containing 357 acres, 1 road and 26 6-10 poles—the buildings to commence at $8 per acre.

A plat of said lands will be exhibited on day of sale.

TERMS.—Said lands will be sold upon a credit of one and two years, except 10 per cent. of the purchase money, which will be required in cash. Notes for the credit payments will be required of the purchasers with not less than two solvent securities, and a lien will be retained on the lands until all of the purchase money is paid.

This March 25th, 1882.
